Dear Sir/Madam,

NOTIFICATION OF COPYRIGHT INFRINGEMENT

We, Attributor Corporation, have been authorized by the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) to protect copyright of ISO standards, in particular to search the web for ISO standards that have been illegally posted. Please note that copyright ownership of ISO is clearly indicated on each ISO standard. Based in Switzerland, ISO is the world largest developer and publisher of international standards with a membership of national standards bodies from 164 countries.

Our web search has detected that you post an ISO standard on your website under the link provided below. Generally, ISO does not authorize the posting of its standards on publicly accessible websites. You might have posted the ISO standard without being aware of the copyright situation but this use of the ISO standard seriously infringes ISO's copyright.

REQUEST

We invite you to respect ISO's copyright and REQUEST THAT YOU IMMEDIATELY REMOVE THE ISO STANDARD FROM YOUR WEBSITE. Please note that we will verify within a few days whether you complied with our request. At this stage, ISO reserves all its rights.

BECOME AN ISO CLIENT

If you wish to become a client and obtain authorization to use ISO standards (e.g., make copies or post an ISO standard on your intranet) then please visit ISO's website or the websites of ISO's members. You will find useful information at <http://www.iso.org/iso/home/store.htm>.

If you believe that you are authorized to post the ISO standard on your website, please contact us at the email address below.
